

Cook Inletkeeper

Cook Inletkeeper is a community-based nonprofit organization formed in 1994, combining advocacy, education and science toward its mission to protect Alaska's Cook Inlet watershed and the life it sustains. Inletkeeper conducts research to understand the effects of climate change on local salmon streams, trains citizens to monitor water quality, and presses for responsible development projects in Southcentral Alaska.

Cook Inletkeeper is first and foremost in the business of protecting water quality and quantity, while embracing the inherent connections between people, the economy, and the environment. Inletkeeper recognizes the vital importance that marine trades and fisheries play in the local community, and is proud to partner with the Homer Chamber of Commerce as their fiscal agent in the 2009 K-Bay SeaFest. For more information about Cook Inletkeeper, visit their website at www.inletkeeper.org.